

Kent Bottenfield

BAND STORY

Kent Bottenfield is a dynamic singer/songwriter who has stormed onto the CCM scene the past year sharing his excellent music and message across the USA and the world. Before Kent commenced his music ministry, he was an All Star pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals. Kent had the opportunity to pitch in the 1999 All Star game for the National League, which came after he had almost given up on his baseball career. Kent had remarkable endurance for a professional baseball pitcher, and spent 16 years as a pro ball player. 8 of those years were in the majors with the Cardinals, Cubs, Expos, San Francisco Giants, Angels, Phillies, Astros, and the Colorado Rockies. Kent had to retire in 2001 after a career ending rotator cuff (shoulder) injury. Even though he was dedicated to his baseball career, music was in his soul! Often, Kent would take his keyboards on the road and serenade team mates with his songs. With his baseball career now over, Kent knew it was time to start his second mission in life, that mission was to use music as a tool to soften the hearts of people to receive Christ as their Savior. With that goal in mind, he did what he always did in baseball, he worked hard on his craft, studied those who went before him, and before long, had crafted songs of passion and excellence. In late 2004, Kent produced his debut album called, "Take Me Back," with renowned producer Michael Omartian. What transpired was an excellent project, filled with songs penned of inspiration and hope. What Kent now brings to audiences worldwide is a passion to reach people with a message that no matter how hard life gets, and when you feel like giving up, there is hope found in Jesus Christ. Kent's excellent music points people towards a relationship with Christ, and even has a personal invitation included on the CD. Kent takes his music and ministry as seriously as he took his baseball career. It is rare to find an artist so dedicated to excellence, with such a passionate desire to bring the great news of Christ to those he comes in contact with, whether that be on stage in churches, or in the world. Knowing Kent, he won't rest on his laurels or past success, he is already working on new songs for a new project and taking his music to more and more people!
