it's been a lil' while, but...

...basically, things are starting to really get moving for Returning Soon once again. We have a new drummer named Maurice Neil who is most excellent, a new bass player (new to this site, he's been with us since January) named Andrew Dawson who is also most excellent, a cd that will be released this fall, and a more polished, aggressive sound then before.

That's where things stand. You'll be hearing more from us soon!
