Steps to stewardship

Since life is not lived in the spotlight or in thirty-minute episodes, its hard to really come up with a beginning to this. I'll just stick to stewardship cause that will keep me from rambling on and on and on...there is a sameness creeping over the face of american christendom. Fundamentalist look more like charismatics, charismatics sound more like apologists. A sameness because of shared music and the emergence of PRAISE/Worship as part of a new liturgy. I can't know yet whether its good or bad but its there...we all seem to having the same experience all across the country.

In far away Oklahoma City, way up in the suburbs there is a tiny church. Not a mega-church although there are many in the city.

This tiny gathering is less than five hundred souls clinging to a fifteen year existence. An existence marked by triumph and heartache, having lost their dear founder & Pastor Annaias Hawkins, whose wife & co-founder Pastor Susan Hawkins bravely stepped into the void and assumed leadership. This group of dedicated christians has allowed me to serve as minister of music for some five years now. In that role one of the tenets I have tried to teach is STEWARDSHIP one of the activities we have embarked on is a Cd project entitled;"The Anointing" part of the stewardship associated with that project is promotion. So in surfing the web looking for avenues to promote our Cd I was happy to come across this site.
